

Highlight English

Just for you!

CLASS 3.25 I have a friend who ...

- Relative clauses.
- Relative pronouns.

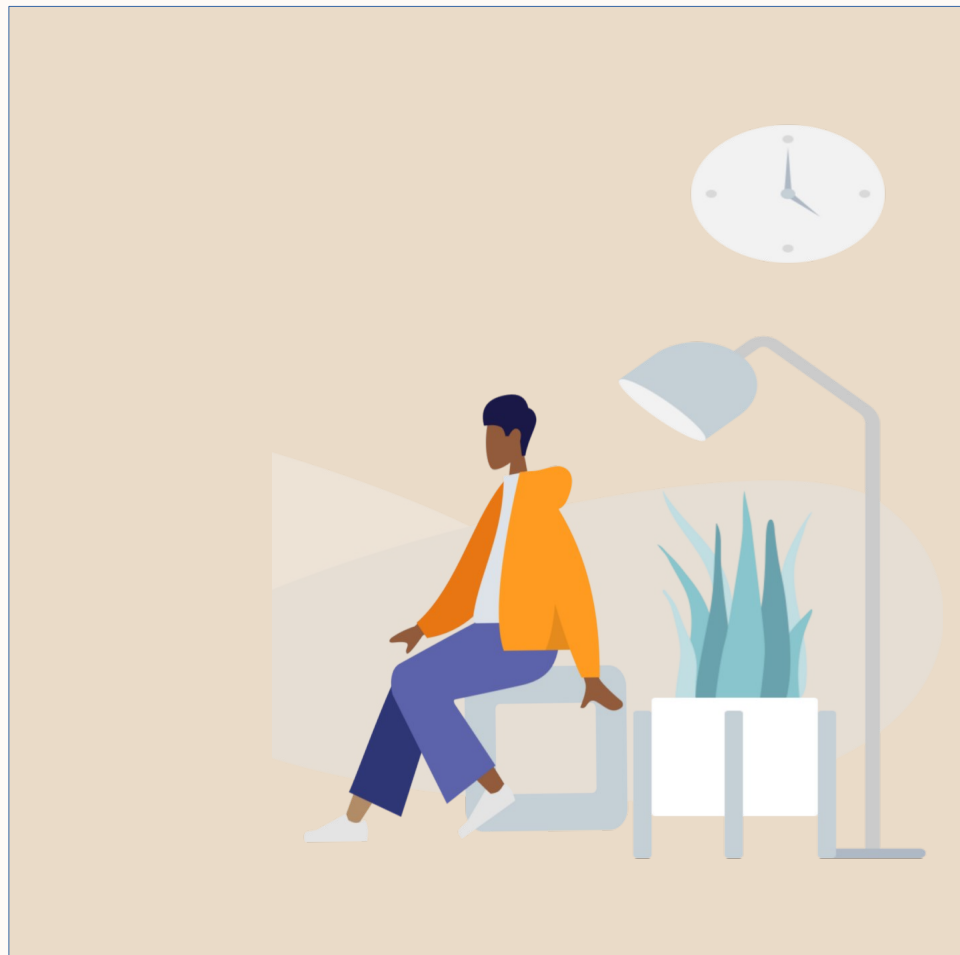

Listen to the next audio, complete the phrases.

- Sara is the girl I go to Spanish classes with at night. She's the one who told me about the classes when I was in the office. It's convenient because we almost always leave the office at the same time, so we can share the car.
- Jennifer is a friend from college. Jen has a restaurant in the beach that's really hot right now, so her life is very different from mine. She still calls a lot to talk about all the things she's doing. That's kind of fun

Listen to the next audio, complete the phrases.

- Vincent is a guy that Jen introduced me to. He was looking for an apartment to share. It's great because he's a 'clean freak.' I've never lived in a place that's so clean.
- Nina is an interesting woman who works with Vincent. She used to have a music group that played on weddings for people. She has some funny stories to tell.

Listen to the next audio, complete the phrases.

- Charlie is someone I grew up with. We've been through a lot together. I can tell him just about anything. He's just someone I can totally trust.
- Then there's Mila. She's a new friend I met through Charlie. She's cool. She's the kind of person you can just call and say, 'You want to go have a coffee tonight?' That kind of thing.

How does the audio express these ideas? Rewrite the sentences in the article.

- Nina is an interesting woman. She works with Vincent.

- _____

- Jen has a restaurant. It's really hot right now.

- _____

- Mila is a new friend. I met her through Charlie.

- _____

- Jen calls me a lot to talk about things. She's doing a lot of things.

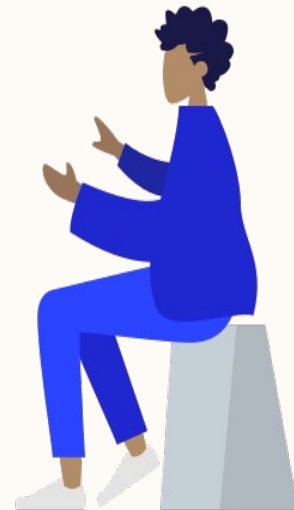

- _____

Relative clauses.

Relative clauses begin with who, that, and which. They give information about people or things. Use who and that to refer to people and that and which to refer to things.

Nina is an interesting woman who works with Vincent.

She had a music group that played on weddings

Relative clauses.

- Subject relative clauses:

Who, that, which are the subject of the verb.

Sara is an interesting woman [who | | that] knows a lot about computers.

Julio used to have a bakery [that | | which] sold wedding cakes.

Relative clauses.

- Object relative clauses:

Who, that, which are the object of the verb.

Charlie is someone [who | | that] plays computer games with me.

Samantha talks about the things [that | | which] she's studying.

Combine each pair of sentences using relative clauses.

More than one answer may be possible.

- I have a really good friend. He works at an international airport.
- There was a really funny guy in my college. He was always telling jokes.
- One of my friends from work has a rock band shirt. His favorite band signed it.
- My boss's daughter has a really expensive car. Her grandfather gave it to her.
- I have a new friend. I met her in my kickboxing class.
- My father and I saw a very funny show last night. It made us both laugh.